Ferrofluid
Oil Pastel + Acrylic

Artist Statement: From seeing ferrofluid and watered down acrylic interact, I learned that ferrofluid is hydrophobic meaning it will not mix with the watercolor. The most challenging part of working with oil pastels was getting them to blend together without looking clumpy. My favorite part of this project was painting the black area.

Colorful Apple Creation
Acrylic

Artist Statement: I have used acrylic paint almost all of my life. Typically when I do acrylic painting its for my mom or family/friends and has calligraphy on it. I have never had to blend the paints smooth, been limited to primary colors, or had to draw an object. I found it difficult to get a smooth bend in some areas. I enjoyed doing the background and getting to design the piece as my own.

Creativity Explosion
Gelli print

Artist Statement: The concept or message behind my work is how if you keep an open mind you can really unleash your creativity. Expanding your mind can lead to new ideas. I achieved my finished effect by keeping a plain black and white background. I then printed the bottom portion of a face and made a gradation with yellow and brown to add shading. My next step was to print the colors for the exploding of the head and used a stencil for the red spirals. Finally I added brown lines of definition for the facial features.

Low Battery
Acrylic + LED lights

Artist statement: This piece is inspired by technology addiction. We are often so attached to our screens and devices that we are hypnotized by them. I wanted my piece to show the emotion and attachment we have to technology, and that it can be a negative thing. The girl in the painting is so addicted to her phone that when her battery dies, she dies with it. I decided to write a short story around the edge of painting that depicts how the girl is feeling.

Artist Statement: I’ve been wanting to paint one of my dogs for a while now and decided it would be a fun challenge to paint one of them in a style inspired by pop art. It was fun to work with the color combination and the background design. The most frustrating part to work with was the face and getting his markings down correctly, but I really like how this looks!
